you'll see how to use accounting to understand business

In this inspired new edition the authors illustrate accounting not as a set of technical procedures to be memorized but as a way of identifying and understanding business problems and a means for evaluating potential solutions. Now in its fourth edition the primary goal of this text remains the same: teach students to understand the impact of accounting information on a company's financial statements. This unique organization introduces students to the accounting information system and then emphasizes accounting for the activities of the firm in the second half of the book. This engages students in the type of financing, investing, and operating decisions that a firm has to make. The approach is especially ideal for students who will become users of accounting information because concepts, not procedures, are emphasized.

Now in its fifth edition, this text is written for use in introductory accounting courses for students with no prior knowledge of the subject. This edition comes with an alternate set of end-of-chapter exercises on an accompanying CD-ROM.

A user-friendly edition where technical detail has been reduced and greater emphasis placed on highlighting actual company scenarios and critical thinking material. This edition features learning aids such as an analysis component to the problem material and real-world information and examples. New emphasis is placed on the corporate approach on perpetual inventory and financial statement analysis.

Financial accounting or financial accountancy is the field of accounting concerned with the summary, analysis, and reporting of financial transactions pertaining to a business. This involves the preparation of financial statements available for public consumption. Stockholders, suppliers, banks, employees, government agencies, business owners, and other stakeholders are examples of people interested in receiving such information for decision-making purposes. Financial accountancy is governed by both local and international accounting standards. GAAP, which stands for generally accepted accounting principles, is the standard framework for guidelines for financial accounting used in any given jurisdiction. It includes the standards, conventions, and rules that accountants follow in recording and summarizing and in the preparation of financial statements. On the other hand, IFRS (International Financial Reporting Standards) is a set of international accounting standards stating how particular types of transactions and other events should be reported in financial statements ifrs are issued by the international accounting standards iass with ifrs becoming more widespread on the international scene consistency in financial reporting has become more prevalent between global organisations whilst financial accounting is used to prepare accounting information for people outside the organisation or not involved in the day to day running of the company management accounting provides accounting information to help managers make decisions to manage the business
